NEW CHILDREN'S BOOK COLLECTION HIGHLIGHTS REPRODUCTIVE OPTIONS

Ordinarily, most people don't think twice about how to build a family. Having biological children is presumed to be the way it is going to happen—until it doesn't. It is at this stage that parents begin the journey to explore additional options, and this journey is not always easy. For those parents who choose third party reproductive assistance, these books provide a delightfully new and refreshing way to tell children about their unique beginnings. Written by mental health and reproductive specialist Iréné Celcer, and boldly portrayed by internationally recognized illustrator Horacio Gatto, this collection provides a great vehicle for parents to tell children how they came into this world. Told in a language a child can understand, these books recount the tale of how mom and dad met, fell in love, and ultimately built a family. Each stand-alone volume of this collection recounts the same story from a different perspective, highlighting four distinct pathways to conception: egg donation, embryo donation, sperm donation, and surrogacy. These books celebrate the unique gift couples can receive on their way to becoming a family.

Iréné Celcer, MA, LCSW, is originally from Argentina. She holds graduate degrees in psychology from Universidad de Belgrano, holistic psychology from Antioch University, and social work from Yeshiva University. She specializes in infertility, third party reproductive assistance, and eating disorders. She lives and works in Atlanta, Georgia.

Horacio Daniel Gatto is an internationally recognized illustrator and graphic designer. His award-winning children's illustrations have appeared in many publications and several national exhibitions. Mr. Gatto is a member of the Argentinean Illustrators Association and the Argentinean Illustrators Forum. He presently makes his home in Buenos Aires, Argentina.
